

ENEMIES OF MOLD AND MOLD SPORES

Mold is one of man's oldest enemies, yet we have coped with it for countless centuries. Today mold has taken on a new face: it can threaten our daily lives due to living habits, construction techniques, and other factors.

Though mold has survived for millions of years, it does have its weaknesses. If not for the balance of "Mother Nature," mold relationships would be totally out of control. The sun, wind, rain and other contingencies all play integral parts in the life of mold and mold spores.

THE FOLLOWING ITEMS HAVE A NEGATIVE INFLUENCE ON MOLDS AND MOLD SPORES:

1. Borate—One of the best natural enemies of mold. Isn't it compelling that one of our oldest laundry detergents (20 Mule Team® Borax) is also one of the best products for killing mold and mold spores without poisonous side-effects to humans? Simply, borate is a highly effective fungicide. A typical borate solution—one cup of "20 Mule Team® Borax" to one gallon of distilled water—can
